

Bases Are Named

TURIN, Italy, March 22

(UPI)—Sources in the Italian intelligence agency said today that material found in the possession of three persons charged with spying for the Soviet Union provided "unquestionable" evidence that they had spied on at least four United States bases in Spain.

The bases were identified as

Torreón de Ardoz, near Madrid; Sanjurjo, near Zaragoza; Rota, near Cadiz, and el Ferrol, near Cartagena. The source said the information covered nuclear submarine and Air Force installations and radar centers.
